

Diwali

7.11.18

This afternoon we enjoyed a crafternoon across the whole of the Infant Phase to celebrate Diwali.

Diwali is a festival of light that both Sikhs and Hindus celebrate in October or November every year. They put up lots of lights and light candles such as Diwa lamps to celebrate the light over the darkness, the victories of good over evil and the victory of knowledge over ignorance.

We made Diya lamps out of clay, paper lanterns, Rangoli patterns and Mehndi patterns on paper hands too!

Can you think of any similarities or differences between Diwali and Advent or Hannukah?
