Dear Parents,

The children have worked very hard leading up to the SATs week next week. I am very proud of their dedication, determination and resilience. They will be brilliant next week!

As SATs are next week I have decided not to give them any home learning to give them a bit of a rest over the weekend- they deserve it!

On Monday through to Thursday, your child is invited into school at 8am to have breakfast with us altogether. This ensures that nobody is late; we have a good breakfast and are settled ready for the test to start. The children have already put their breakfast orders in and we will be having egg and bacon on Thursday as a final treat!

As the end of the year is fast approaching, I wanted to let you know some important dates. The week beginning 17th June is business and enterprise week for year 6. The children are given £10 per group; they have to create a business plan, a product to sell, be responsible for marketing their product and sell their product after school in order to raise money for our end of term production costumes and events. It is a great week where the children learn a lot about marketing, profit margins and product design. The children are expected to stay after school until 4pm.

Our topic after SATs will be 'It's good to be British' and as part of this topic I am hoping to go into London to visit the London Eye and other famous landmarks. We will let you know as soon as possible the final costing of the trip. I am still waiting for confirmation from the London Eye.

As a leavers treat we are also organising an evening event on Thursday 18th July from 6pm until 8pm at school, which involves inflatable fun activities, it's a knock out style games and a barbecue.

The children will be involved in a study day at St Boniface on Tuesday 4th June. The children will also be going to St John's for fun leaver's day activities towards the end of term but dates need to be confirmed with the church.

Our end of year leaver's assembly: Ali Baba and the Bongo Bandits will be on Tuesday 16th July at 6pm at school for parents and wider family. Finally, we will be having our end of year pizza picnic and leavers church service on Tuesday 23rd July.

There will be more details to follow after May half term.

Thank you for your continued support.

Yours Sincerely,

Amber Cole
